AUGUST BYRD Manager

The local "Push Club" should take up the matter of a public library, as suggested by State Supt. Ackerman in his speech last evening. The Ladies' Afternoon Club would take an interest in the affair and assist very materially provided it could be assured permanency and proper care. Such talks as were given by Supt. Ackerman and President Campbell of the State University are a great stimulus toward a community in an educational way and bring the ordinary mortal to a realization of the necessity of taking an active interest in school affairs. The push club should take this matter up and make suggestions to the city authorities.

At a meeting of the Burns Development League Monday evening active steps were taken to get in touch with experienced men to make a test for artesian water in the valley. We have every indication and encouragement that artesian water in this valley at a reasonable depth and the league will know as soon as possible just what the possibilities are in that respect.

No better work could be done by our people toward the rapid development of this section. It is a practical proposition that will be backed by all good citizens and will certainly be beneficial. Since that meeting, however, Mr. Huffman has signified his intention to secure an up-to-date machine for the purpose of sinking artesian wells therefore the local league may be able to deal with home people and get a test well in the near future. The league will meet again on Tuesday evening, Sept. 25 at which time this subject will again be discussed. Those interested should be present.

If Portland wants to be a great city, and that right soon, her business men should work for the development of interior Oregon. This section should have a system of railroads that will make it possible for settlers who go there to get their products to market. Let us quit howling about the Columbia river bar. If one ship comes in, twenty or even more can come in. The trouble is, there is not enough trade to bring them here. Open up interior Oregon and the bar will be the least of our troubles. We need a million or more farmers and stockmen in this state, and we can provide homes for them in interior Oregon if we will but unbottle this section. Portland should help pull the cork, for it is a more bottled farming section than Portland is a shipping center. By opening the flood-gate to immigration the commercial tide would be strong enough to reach the Orient and Alaskan points without a ripple of disturbance of any kind. The slogan should be "Open up interior Oregon and the trade will follow the river to the ocean."—Rural Spirit.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Perhaps the most successful teachers' institute ever held in Harney county was brought to a close last evening. It was largely attended, every teacher actively engaged in the work in the county being present.

State Supt. Ackerman, President Campbell of the state university and President Ressler of the Monmouth Normal were present and added much to the interest of the meeting. These eminent educators are making a tour of the interior part of the state which will prove most beneficial to the educational work of the state, bringing the public schools and high schools in closer touch with the higher institutions of learning, besides adding encouragement to local teachers.

The day sessions of the institute were taken up in discussions and various subjects of particular interest to the teachers in which much practical benefit was derived.

The evening sessions were attended by the general public to listen to lectures which were both instructive and interesting. The evening programs were enlivened by musical members that seemed to be greatly appreciated, especially the singing of Mesdames Farris and Leonard and Miss Bertha Williams. Prof. Ressler rendered two solos last evening which were exceptionally good.

The visiting educators left this morning for Lake county and from there they go to Klamath and Josephine counties.
